

Evaluation of the medical effects of a protection against technical electrosmog with regard to a strengthening of the organism for the purpose of a better resistance against pathogens

It has been proven by many studies and measurements on the human body and cell cultures that the RayGuard 5G device strengthens the organism by harmonising the body's own vibrations and frequency patterns with the help of minerals. This makes the organism more resistant and less susceptible to pathogens.

Viruses and other pathogen-related infections affect a body that is strong in its systems much less than one that is weakened.
